

With all the talk about “Booster jabs”, we’ve taken a look at how they can be administered. Numbers are available on the number of Covid jabs done by GPs, Practice Nurses and PCNs (Primary Care Networks) so far in England. The total number of vaccinations to date is 50.6 million in England. Roughly 25 million people fully vaccinated since January 2021 via primary care practices. Peak weeks saw 2.0 – 2.5 million jabs administered in General Practice.

The conclusion is “Good news” ... as priority groups could get “boosters” quickly within the now tested framework. The establishing of Primary Care Networks has definitely benefitted us all.

RMS will continue to inform you about the changing environment in Primary Care with information help you plan direct marketing and mailing activity as restrictions are released. The low availability of HCPs for face-2-face contact means “going-direct” to customers is the best answer.
